Description

Localised Adiposity is much more than just an annoying imperfection - it is merely the tip of the iceberg for numerous metabolic alterations in various organic systems (endocrine, immune, circulatory, nervous), tissues (connective matrix, adipose tissue) and organs (liver, kidneys, pancreas, intestine).

Localised Adiposity is a complex matter that can only be resolved using an equally complex approach on several fronts.

Each of the 3 different points of attack in the cosmetic strategy require a multiple and integrated approach using remedies which act on several fronts and various mechanisms which work in synergy with each other.
